INTRODUCTION

It has been a great pleasure and some work to compile this genealogy. I am indebted to many members of the family for their assistance, in particular to Miss Alice Goff, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Reuwee Brown, Reverend Marcius Taber, Mrs. Verna Cook Goold, and Mrs. Cora Brown Hilton. Without their contributions and suggestions this would be a much smaller compilation.

Efforts were made to obtain data where blanks are shown but some families did not choose to reply, or could not find further data. Research beyond Richard and Mary (Reuwee) Brown will be continued. To date very little has been found which can establish more facts with any degree of certainty.

Errors in dates are bound to creep into a compilation such as this. Kindly make your own corrections and keep your record current for as many of the family as you know. I hope this record will bring a greater realization to its possessors of the meaning of family unity and interest.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Each person has been assigned a number given first when he/she appears in column II as a child, when parentage and birth-date are given. The person's number and name appear again in sequence later in column I, when, as an individual, more data is given, if available. Consequently, each person's number and name appear twice unless the person died in childhood.

Page numbers in the index refer only to the FIRST record of the person's number and name. From there it will be necessary to locate the second appearance by looking for the number in column I.

All persons' names have been carried forward, even those of children. It is hoped that families will enter data in the spaces provided and record marriages, deaths, births of children, etc. As the years pass records thus may be kept current which will be of great value to the future members of the Richard Brown - Mary Reuwee family.

- 1 Richard Brown, born about 1752, married Mary Rewey (Rhuwee, Reuwee, Rowe, Rue)
Children:

Fifth-

I make constitute and appoint Loren Green of the town of Byron, aforesaid to be executor of my last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills by me made.

William Frederick Brown"

Copy of a letter sent to Fred Brown, written by John Searls, concerning the settlement of Hannah Brown's estate, dated 15 May 1878, Byron, New York.

"Dear Friend-

I suppose you are anxious to hear something from me. I have been so busy I have not had much time to write. I am ready to send what money I have in my hands, but the surrogate says I had better wait until an administrator is appointed to settle Mrs. Brown's debts and then we can settle up and see how much there is that belongs to you and the others. He says I have no business to pay any of her debts. He has written to some of her heirs, sending a petition to have an administrator appointed. But has received no answer yet. There are some charges against her estate in favor of the Brown estate for money paid for taxes. Arthur Green paid me $199.27, Fred Shelt paid $400. on the mortgage. The money is in the bank ready to send.

We are about as usual, Mary Brown is failing, can not sit up much now. Your Grandfater Chapell did not live long after going to Clarendon.

Please write soon and let me know how you want the money sent, if we ever get matters arranged so as to send it. I should think a draft would be best.

Yours truly,
J. Searls"

"Richard G. Brown, born in Massachusetts in 1799, removed to Verona, N.Y., with his father's family as early as 1804, or earlier. In 1813 the family again moved westward, and settled in the woods near the Rock school house, His father built a log cabin, and resided in Byron until 1839, when the spirit of adventure took him to the far West again, and he settled in Oakland County, Mich., where he died in 1857, aged 82 years. Mr. Brown was reared a farmer, and had a limited common school education. In 1824 he married Laura, daughter of Samuel Searls, of Byron, and moved his bride and her effects to his log house in the woods, on lot 124, which he had previously built. In 1829 he sold his first "pitch", and removed to a log house, and a larger and better farm, on lot 110, where he resided until 1850, when he built a fine farm house which is now the home of his son, M.B.C. Brown. Here he resided the remainder of his business life. He sold the homestead to his son in 1877 at died at North Byron, February 2, 1885, aged nearly 86 years. He was a man of medium stature active and hardy, and a great worker. Besides clearing his own farm he felled the timber, and cut it up in lengths for logging, on 100 acres for his neighbors. Mr. Brown was a worthy member of the Methodist Church of Byron Center as it existed, later united with the Free Baptist Church at North Byron and gave to it his hearty support. He was a man who, when he had formed an opinion, seldom changed, but always strove to pursue the right."

Betsey Brown's Story (Mrs. Curtis Cook)

I was born in 1804, in Oneida County, Town of Verona, and came into Byron at nine years of age, 1813. There were no roads, only as we cut through the woods; a path led by the Rock school-house. No houses in sight at this time, only the bodies of trees. Father put up a log cabin, one room below, with slab roof and bass-wood log floor, adzed off and so laid. We had no chimney for a time, afterward a stick one, but we took solid comfort. The window-sash Father Richard Brown split out, and we had greased paper instead of glass. The children had earthen trenchers for eating, the older ones blue-stone china. Our chairs were splint-bottom; mother had a rocking-chair with a head-rest, the bottom fell out, and father put in strips of elm. Our house was 20 by 22 feet, with one room. Father and mother slept in one corner and the children in the other. My parents brought their bedstead with them, and after we had slept on the floor for a time we had post-beds, bored into the logs. The logs on the inside were chinked with moss to keep out the cold. We brought with us one square table with a drawer for the meat-plate, which was large. Ordinarily we ate without any table-cloth, and kept one only for company, and our linen was all homespun. The washing was done in an iron kettle, and we had a battle and battle-board, with a wash-tub, and used lye and soap, weak.

Our house had no boiler until the stove came. At first our andirons were of stone, and we baked bread in a bake-kettle on the ashes and coals and I have baked pies in the same in tins, and also bread. Our axes came from Sibley's, at Rochester, and the boys, when only seven years of age had theirs, to cut under-brush. The second log-house was put up in 1818, on the west side of the farm; a double one, with two rooms below, a pantry and bedroom. Our mother died in the old house, and father married Abigail Gibson in 1817. Up-stairs, our house had one main room, which was partitioned off. The floor below was of maple, narrow boards, and kept very white by washing; there was a ladder to go aloft for the children.

There was no road at first to Farwell's Mills, only a path for some time. Our house had no door for a while, but had a blanket hanging down, with a log rolled against it to keep the wolves from entering. They came around one night, and howled fearfully, and father got up and stirred up the fire to drive them away. The next day we saw their tracks near the house. Wolves would be caught in pits with spring-boards. When I was little, I spun on a quill-wheel, and had my stent to knit when I was only seven years of age. We spun our own thread, as there was none there, and afterwards it was bought on little cotton balls. We would peel blue beech to make a scrub-broom, and use gourds for dippers. Our ware was mostly Japan, with iron candlesticks, such as they scrape hogs with nowadays; mother had one or two brass candlesticks. I have known calico to be as high as $1.00 per yard, and I have one such piece in a bed-quilt now. We had no wells, only living springs where to get water. Flat-irons were very large then, and we had a black earthen tea-pot; tea was very high, and cost from $2.00 to 18 shillings per pound. Father would take maple sugar on his back to Batavia, and trade it for tea for mother. The coffee was made out of crusts scorched, and we had only a little in the spring of the year with sap coffee. The sugar from the store was loaf, in purple papers, which we had to chip off with an axe or knife. We made our soap soft, and then would put in salt to harden it. Batavia was our market, and at this time Hewitt kept a store between Spring and Black creeks. We made our own candles. We went to Billy Brown's to meetings, and old Mr. Miller and Mr. Spalding were Methodist ministers. We would go three or four miles to meeting, and take blocks of wood with boards across for seats. The minister would stand back of a chair, read and sing twice at first, before hymn-books were used; sometimes two sermons, in the forenoon and afternoon. We would go home, read the Bible, or listen, and the children were not allowed to pick up beechnuts on Sunday.

Our place was south of the Rock school-house, and a burying-ground was once on father's land. I came on to my present home in 1835. Sanford had the place before we did; Mr. Cook bought eighteen acres, and there was a poor log-house, and we rigged up a corn-barn and lived in the same. In 1824, I saw a stove in Batavia, when I worked there, and I cooked over it for three months. It had a place on which to broil steak, venison and chicken. The first stove I had was only one griddle, and was only for boiling, with no legs, but bricks.

I wove cloth, and hired the same done for two dollars for the winter. Curtains at first were of paper, and we had a one-horse buggy with wooden springs. We had quilting and picking bees, of wool, to send to the carding-mill. We would spin during the day and dance at night. Father made our own shoes, and the children whittled the pegs out of maple. We had butter which tasted of leeks in the woods, and we used sives to take away this sensation while eating. Our whisky would be got at Sturges', in wooden bottles. Samuel Taggart was our doctor. Mr. Cook has sold corn for one shilling a bushel. I never heard of catarrh there when I was a girl. There were plenty of blue jays, but no golden robins. The meetings had no collections that I can remember. We had no rats until grain came, but a great many bats; also flying squirrels. I do not remember crows, but there were some hawks. Wild geese flew over, and quail and partridge plenty."

"William F. Brown, third child of Richard G. and Laura (Searls) Brown, was born in the log cabin on lot 110, in June, 1829, and was brought up at hard labor and educated in the common schools. December 18, 1851, he married Hannah S. Benton, of Byron, and settled on a part of lot 122. He has always been a farmer. In the spring of 1871 he removed to the farm of 170 acres, on lots 99 and 111, where he now resides. Mr. Brown is a pushing, enterprising, business manager and farmer. He has built a fine set of buildings on each of the farms that he has owned, and an especially elegant set at his present pleasant home. As a man he is courteous and affable, an obliging neighbor, and a kind, indulgent husband and father. He is a staunch Republican, but not an office-seeker. He has the confidence of his townsmen, and has consented to act as their assessor four years. Mr. and Mrs. Brown have had two children, Mary E. and Edwin B. Edwin B. married Mary E. Swan, is a farmer adjoining his father, and has two daughters. Mary E. died in 1879, at the early age of 16 years and six months.

- 30 Melville Beverly Cox Brown b. 7 Nov. 1833 in Byron, Genesee Co., N.Y. m. Amy Merrill, dau. of Lemuel Hulbert and Eunice Uoeba (Hopkins) Merrill, 25 Jan. 1877. Amy Merrill was b. 31 May 1845 in Byron, and d. 10 July 1936 in Byron. She married first, 21 Apr. 1864, George Clinton Brown, Melville's brother. Melville died 22 March 1899, in Byron. Melville's death was caused by pneumonia which he contracted following an accident. He had been chopping wood down in the woods when the axe glanced off the wood and struck him in the leg above the ankle. He bled profusely, but made his way back to the farmhouse in the cold weather. He was taken to a doctor by buggy. The loss of so much blood weakened him to the point of contracting pneumonia.

Children:

- 59 Searls Graham b. 4 Jan. 1879, Byron, N.Y., at 6050 Merriman Road. (The house number was given "Brownhaven" in 1964.)

"Melville B.C. Brown, son of Richard G. Brown, was also born in the log cabin on lot 110, November 7, 1833, and was educated in the common schools and early taught industrious habits. January 25, 1877, he married Mrs. Amy (Merrill) Brown, widow of his brother George C., and brought his wife to the homestead, which he was conducting. In April, 1877, he purchased the farm of his father, which has been his home from his birth. Mr. Brown is a good farmer and gives his whole attention to the cultivation of his fine farm of 155 acres. He is an extensive reader, a close observer, and has acquired a fund of practical information. In influence and excellence of character he well sustains the high reputation of the Brown family of Byron. Mr. and Mrs. Brown are parents of one son, Searls G. Mr. Brown was raised a Democrat, voted for Millard Fillmore in 1856 and for Abraham Lincoln in 1860, and remained a thorough Republican until 1888, when his temperance principles induced him to join the ranks of the Prohibitionists."
